Your 3-step Pet Emergency Plan

Preparation is the most effective way to protect your pet. A clear, written plan ensures you can act quickly and confidently in an emergency.

Step 1 Include your pet in your evacuation plan

Ensure your pet:

- Is comfortable being transported (carrier, crate, lead)
- Is microchipped and registered with up to date details
- Can be safely handled in unfamiliar or stressful environments

You should also identify the conditions that will trigger your decision to evacuate.

Step 2 Prepare a pet emergency kit

Your kit should include:

- Food and water for several days
- Medications and veterinary records
- Registration and microchip information
- Leads, carriers, bedding and comfort items
- Contact details for your vet and emergency contacts

Keep this kit ready and easily accessible at all times.

Step 3 Practice your plan

Practising your evacuation plan helps ensure that:

- You can move quickly
- Your pet is familiar with the process
- All household members understand their responsibilities

This reduces stress and improves safety for everyone involved. In high pressure situations, preparation matters.

Your pet will rely on you for everything during an evacuation

Share your plan and protect more animals

Not everyone is prepared for an emergency. Sharing your plan with friends, family, and neighbours can help protect more animals in your community.

At ROLDA, we believe every animal deserves safety, care, and protection no matter where they are in the world.

Prepared communities don't just save human lives, they save animal lives too.

A little planning can save a life

Natural disasters are unpredictable but preparation is within your control. Taking the time to plan now ensures that when the unexpected happens, you won't be forced to choose between your safety and your pet's.

Because in an emergency, your pet doesn't understand what's happening, they only know to stay with you.

Make sure you're ready to protect them
